THE NEXT CONGRESS.

Without descending to parulars, it is manifest that there are many streams in our own State, which, with small appropriations expended in their improvement, could be rendered useful for navigation, and when thus improved, the values of All eyes have for a long time the lands on their banks would be enhanced two and three fold, and Lonisiana, and the hopes of and in many instances even more than this, while the citithose who believed they saw the silver lining of peace in local zens residing contiguous to them, government and Democratic would have their material prosperity promoted. The constitutionality of such measures, is no longer a question. Then we repeat, with the good feeling the wise policy of Hampton and likely to prevail in the next Congress, it is to be hoped that Southern Representatives will not fail to take advantage of cutives they are. Equal laws the apportunity to press the equal protection were promised claims of their section for recognition to a fair share of the race or color-and these are disbursements in works of internal improvement.

DUTY OF SOUTHERN MEN.

If the South intends to be prosperous and independent. now that the question of local self government has been decided in her tavor, and may be said to be fully inaugurated, there is another question to which her sons should lose no time in directing their attention. Our allusion is to manufactures. These cannot be established in a day, nor can the various ones needed, all be started at the same time-

It is not necessary in order to start manufactures, that one man should be sole owner of an establishment. One may be a farmer a merchant or a professional gentleman, and yet contribute something to the enterprise alluded to. In all places where manufactories have been successfully established, they are not the result of individual labor, but of combinations of in-

It does seem to us that in a county possessing the wealth that Washington dors, there should be no difficulty in getting up a joint stock company having for its object the manufacture of plantation implements, at the least. It is a talse economy for the farmer to buy his wagons, his plows, and even his axe and hoe handles abroad. It would be better for him to buy there articles manufactured at home, even if he had to pay a little more for them, though there is no probability that he would have to do so-it made at

Corn and cotton which were cultivated with a St. Louis or Cincinnati made plow, are hauled to the burns and depot platforms on White Water wagons. The exhausting flow of money from the country for these articles alone, is one that can easily be stopped, and should

Who among us will have the honor of taking the first steps to inaugurate a joint stock manufacturing company? If the enterprise was started, the stock, payable in quarterly installments, would soon be taken. The benefits that would soon manifest themselves, would induce others to embark in similar industries. To grow only corn and cotton, and to manufacture nothing, is to make ourselves the voluntarry servants, not to say slaves, cf others. The South has been producing the raw material for others to work up, about long enough Let her try a new departure.

A New Paper.-We have received the second number of a ix column daily paper, the News, published at Waco, by J. K. Street, editor and proprietor. The daily is published at eight dollars per annum, and the weekly at two Mr. Street is no stranger to the newspaper world, and with his fine ability as a writer, will no doubt make the News a welcome visitor to its patrons, which we hope will be many.
